

I ask you not to relax rulings that would lead to consolidation of media ownership. One essential component of a democracy is a diverse ownership of media so that many voices have a public forum for expressing varying perspectives. As a nation, we must do more to encourage ownership of media by diverse, currently underrepresented groups.